

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A mobile vehicle is to be operated at constant speed, during which the speed of the drive engine, which drives a step-down transmission (5) via a hydrodynamic torque converter, varies. To do this, a clutch (2) arranged, between the drive engine and the pump impeller (3), is regulated in such manner that the actual speed of the vehicle corresponds to the specified speed.